Chinese Players Make Good Record In Cuba

Locals Meet Many Star Teams in Great Contests in Land Where Baseball Ranks First—Almendares Team One of Best in Island—Lai Tin Describes Trip Along Great Flager Railroad in Florida—Members of Team Enjoy Trip to Cuba

(By W. LAI TJN)

September 29.—Arrangements had been made for the team's trip to Cuba and on Tuesday, the 29th, we were all ready for the train. Our baggage was checked right through to Key West.

Left for West Philadelphia, where at 10:35 we caught the Washington Limited, and after three hours riding we arrived in the capital.

We tried to make arrangements to leave on the night train, but as all plans had been made before, we had to take our Pullman and leave immediately for Key West.

There was a large parade at the capital, which we wanted to see, but found it impossible. On our way to the South we could see the Capitol building, the beautiful parks and Washington's monument, and although we could not see the whole city we were satisfied with going through it and were amused with the beauty of the Capitol building as it stood out against the sky.

The ride was long and tiresome and at every station the boys would all run out for a little airing. The time was broken up with the playing of our instruments and singing, and when we grew tired of that we would turn to playing cards.

Had our first Pullman ride in five months and felt a little strange after our comfortable beds in New York to sleep in a moving bed.

The next day was a duplicate of the day before and we were getting a little tired sitting in the close quarters. The scenery was nothing extra as the forest was the only thing visible and was something like home, being from wood trees.

At 1 o'clock we arrived at Jacksonville, Fla., where we stayed for half an hour. The boys all hopped out of the train and were seen taking pictures beside the largest locomotive in the station. Pictures were taken of the station and the people.

Continued our trip and spent another night on the Pullman. On awakening we were at the tip of Florida proper and then started on across the ocean on a bridge seven miles long.

It certainly is a wonderful piece of engineering and it took quite a few years to build. The bridge itself is of concrete, and the railway bed is perfect.

Most of the time was spent in watching the fish and once in a while we would catch a glimpse of one of those awful creatures, Mr. Shark, swimming alongside the train.

From the beginning of this wonderful bridge to Key West it took about three hours and most of the time was spent going over bridges, and at 8:30 o'clock we arrived at Key West, our last stop before embarking for Havana.

Wesleyan Player Beat Pat O'Dea's Drop Kick Record

According to reports from South Dakota, Mark Payne has broken the record for a drop kick in a game when he kicked the ball over the posts from the 63 yard line. The former record was held by Pat O'Dea of Wisconsin who booted the ball 62 yards in a game against Northwestern November 25, 1908. O'Dea was one of the greatest kickers in the game, and his record kick was followed by others close to this distance. Parke H. Davis, the official statistician of the rules committee, makes no mention of Payne's kick in his records to date, but the Princeton deponent is certain not to miss this before the season ends.

The report taken from the Phreno Cosman of October 19 states:

Mark Payne, who was last year considered the best kicker in South Dakota, has smashed all previous records by a perfect drop kick from the sixty-three yard line in the Aberdeen game last Saturday. Payne regularly plays right half position and his work has on many occasions saved his team mates an early fail. He works well on the interference, is a hard line plunger when carrying the ball, and can equal most players at quarter.

The record can be fully substantiated and marks the Wesleyan athlete as the greatest in this department of the game.

TANK SWIMMING GAINING FAVOR IN LOCAL FIELD

Swimmers in discussing the Y. M. C. A. meet last Friday are encouraged to go ahead with the development of tank swimming in Honolulu. Considerable interest was aroused and some of the best swimmers performed.

A number think that the best way of arousing interest in the meets would be to have the Healanis who are members of the Y. M. C. A. swim on one team and the Myrtles on another. This would put more rivalry into the crowd and develop swimmers for the club.

The Knights of Kamehameha, a Y. M. C. A. club composed of Hawaiian young men, could present a strong team with plenty of interested members behind it. Clarence Lane is now a member of the club and they have several other prominent swimmers. It was a source of keen regret that Lane was prevented by a football injury on the same afternoon from swimming the short distance races in Friday's meet.

He secured third place in the plunge for distance but was unable to enter his favorite races.

H. A. C. Made Good Showing.

The H. A. C. made a surprisingly good showing and these young swimmers form the nucleus for a team that will make things interesting for their opponents in future meets. By recruiting two or three more good swimmers, the H. A. C. can be in the front rank in Y. M. C. A. swimming meets.

Great credit is due the captains who worked their teams for this first meet Friday. Edgar Methven secured the best of the Healanis swimmers for his California team and deserved to win the meet. Bill Raseman and J. P. Morgan scouted high and low for material and had a number of first-class entries. Eddie Cook with a small plank to work with, captained the H. A. C. team which captured second place with 26 points.

With a program of novelties including jumping on a plank over the pool which made such a big hit Friday, especially when A. R. Tullock in full evening dress was knocked from the plank into the pool and Geo. R. Hart in army uniform suffered the same fate, prospects for a swimming meet late in the month are excellent.

An interscholastic meet is being worked on by Physical Director Jackson. With the close of the football season close at hand, it is thought that the water sport would interest the various schools. This would prove a novelty in Honolulu interscholastic circles and there are many promising swimmers in the various educational institutions.

When the Cleveland White Autos, champion amateur team of America, played the Tacoma Tigers, the amateur champions of the Pacific coast, at San Francisco for the world's title, there were two Shager boys on the Tacoma team. Tacoma won one game and Cleveland took one, and in the final game Cleveland won the title by a score of 15 to 5. Paul Shager and Julian Shager, who played third base and center field for the Northerners, are brothers of Miss Alice Shager of the Associated Charities of Honolulu.

When informed this morning that Tacoma had lost the opportunity to win the world's title, Miss Shager said: "Naturally I am sorry that Tacoma did not win, but the boys have made a great record this year. The people of Tacoma have given the amateurs more support than the league team."

Amateurs Drew Record Crowd.

This remark brings out a story this year that proves that amateur ball is coming to the front. A great many fans imagine that the record attendance for a ball game was made at Braves' field when the Bostonians played the Quakers for the championship, but this does not happen to be true.

The White Autos of Cleveland played to over 80,000 spectators in one game when they were fighting for the championship. Nearly every contest was attended by from 15,000 to 50,000 people while the Cleveland Americans could hardly bring out a handful at the local park. Never before has the interest in amateur ball been so great as the boys outdrew the professionals in many cities this year.

JACK BARRY PROVES BEST FINANCIER IN BIG SERIES

Some baseball players achieve niches in the hall of fame and others have records wrecked in the world series. Jack Barry, however, is in a class by himself. All Jack does is to jump from one club to another as pennant chances wax and wane and collect an abnormal share of the post-season receipts. Since 1910 Barry has played in five world series, thereby enriching his bank roll to the extent of $14,821.15. This comes close to batting 1000 in the Financial League.

"Giant Keystone"

According to those on the inside, Manager Johnny McGraw of the New York Giants intends to rip his team to pieces next winter. "Scrappy John," they say, will get rid of at least half his team by trades or by the release method. McGraw is dissatisfied with the showing of a number of his men and believes the team will be greatly benefited by their absence.

It is said about the only one of the infield that will be on the job next season is Larry Doyle, the Giant's second sacker. McGraw believes Larry has many more seasons' good playing in him, so will hold on to him.

Clark Griffith is warm in his praises of Dumont, his new twirler. "He knows a lot for a youngster with so little experience," he said, "and I am sure he will make good. He shows balance and puts a lot of 'stuff' on the ball."

The football rules! The football rules! What sort of men arrange 'em? For every year these seems to be. A lot of men who change 'em.

Sir Isaac Newton could concentrate his mind for hours on the head of a pin, but there's no proof that he did it when the returns from a world's series were coming in.

Two boxing promoters were taken to the Bellevue hospital for observation. They watched the parade of $25,000,000 in gold in New York streets the other day and the strain proved too much for them.

Miss Molla Bjurstad, the young tennis crack from Norway, ought to be clever in making facial contortions if she can pronounce her own name.

Scout Neall of the Phils was in a small minor league town training his lamps on a player that had been recommended to the club. The work of the player impressed Neall and he decided to have a talk with him that night. Shielding his identity, he started a conversation with the player at his hotel. During the talk the bushier had occasion to pull out his keyring. Besides keys, the scout saw a cork screw and beer opener attached. Neall ended the conversation quickly and left the town that night without buying the player.

The canning season for the house wife is in the autumn, but for the ball player it comes in the spring.

Manager Walter McCredie of the Portland Coast League team went to Seattle to look over some of the Northwestern League prospects. He sat talking with owner Dugdale of Seattle and complimented him on some of the players on Dug's team, bemoaning his own lack of talent meanwhile.

"How do you get 'em, Dug?" asked McCredie.

"Well," answered Dugdale, "I'm lucky I guess. Some of the best ones just come to me begging for jobs."

"I never had that luck," said McCredie. "We always have to pay pretty high for what we get. Wish I could pick up a few like you do."

As they talked a tall young pitcher warmed up in front of the stand.

"Who's the pitcher?" asked McCredie.

"Why, that's Malls," answered Dugdale. "He's the fellow I've sold to Brooklyn. He's one of my pickups."

"You're a lucky guy," said McCredie.

The young pitcher quit tossing the ball, walked over to the stand, saw McCredie, held out his hand and said: "Hello, Walt; guess you don't remember me."

"You guessed right," was the reply, after a careful scrutiny.

"Why, I used to be your bat boy," replied Malls.

And then Dug wondered why Mc-

KAULUWELA WINS ANOTHER CONTEST IN JUNIOR LEAGUE

Junior League	W.	L.
Kauluwela	2	0
Palama	1	0
Star-Bulletin	1	1
Beretania	0	1

Last night at Kakaako hall the Kauluwela and the Star-Bulletin, Jr. teams met for the first time this season and the first Star-Bulletin team lost for one reason and one reason only, and that was because their catching department went to pieces in the second inning and stayed in pieces for the remainder of the game.

The game up until the ending of the seventh was fairly even and at the beginning of the eighth stood 21 to 26 in favor of Kauluwela, but in the first of the eighth the Star-Bulletin pitcher was wild, giving three bases on balls and the infield behind him made three costly errors, coupled with four clean hits and two passed balls gave Kauluwela 11 runs and the game as Kelani, who replaced Kakaia in the third, shut out the hard-hitting Bulletin boys in the last two innings. Loose Fielding.

The fielding of the Kauluwela team was way off color, but bad as it was it shaped up good compared with the Star-Bulletin's. In other words, last night was an off night for both teams in the fielding line, and past games where each of these two teams have simply toyed with other teams, makes their poor playing all the more noticeable.

The main feature of the game outside of two fast double plays, one by Kauluwela in the fourth, and one by the Star-Bulletin in the seventh, was the constant rooting of a large number of Kauluwela followers led by Mr. John Kaua, and never did John work harder nor shout louder—in fact, as a rooster John is in a class all by himself and the amount of noise that Mr. Kaua can individually manufacture would put a professional world series rooter to shame.

The least said about the fielding of both teams the better; but in hitting Rosario led for Kauluwela and C. Chew and Chung did the best stick work for the Star-Bulletin.

Star-Bulletin 24-0-0 1 6 1 0-32
Kauluwela 11-1-0 2 3 1 11-0-32

Kauluwela—Hits, 21; B. B., 9; S. outs, 15; errors, 7; P. balls, 3.

Star-Bulletin—Hits, 26; B. B., 1; S. outs, 10; errors, 11; P. balls, 7.

Umpires—James Kauonui and Lu Bun. Time, 1h. 20 min.

The next game in the Junior League will be tomorrow night at Kakaako hall, between Kakaako and Palama.

In the Senior League the scheduled game between Palama and Kakaako at Palama for Friday night is postponed and the date for the playing of this postponed game will be announced later on. The other two games, Kauluwela and Star-Bulletin at Kakaako, and the Beretania and Kalihi at Kalihi, will be played as per schedule.

HORNER AND RICE WIN DOUBLES CUP AT LIHUE

The first of the Wall & Dougherty Cup Tournament came to a close last Sunday, when the final round between E. D. Murdock and J. M. P. Thompson and Albert Horner and Harrison Rice was played in Lihue.

The event proved somewhat disappointing inasmuch as a hard fought battle had been expected, instead of which a rather one-sided match was witnessed. Out of the 20 games played one team captured 10, the rules calling for the best three out of five for the final contest.

Murdock and Thompson both played entirely out of their usual form, only succeeding in taking one game in the first set and one in the second set. Horner and Rice played a moderate game, making everything possible count, which, under the circumstances, allowed their score to mount steadily.

Time for the match was approximately 50 minutes.

Score, 6-1, 6-1, 6-0 in favor of Horner and Rice, who now hold the cup until the next tournament is played off, which is scheduled for April of next year.—From Garden Island.

Credie glared and told the Seattle magnate again that he was a "lucky cuss."

Instead of finding their place in the sun the Giants have found theirs in the cellar.

Having failed to clinch the pennant with E. Collins, Murphy, Jackson and a few other talented and high priced gentlemen, Comiskey might meet with better success next year if he would add to his outfit by purchase Cobb, Crawford, Coach, Leonard, Johnson, Baker and Chapman. An inexhaustible supply of money, persistence and patience ought to win the American League hunting for Chicago in time.

Premier Eyschen, of the Grand Duchy of Luxemburg, died at Luxemburg.

Stanford Still Has Faith in Old Game

Cardinals Will Continue to Play Rugby as Long as it Proves to Be Profitable—Palo Alto and Santa Clara are Last Outposts of Rugby—California Will Meet Washington Team in Football on November 6—Stanford Officials Give Reasons for Retaining Old Game

On the mainland they are calling Stanford's policy of clinging to Rugby, "The Last Stand." California, St. Mary's and all the schools south of the Tehachapi are changed. No more you hear scrum, ruck, kick to touch, etc., for the new path leads to American football. Stanford claims that rugby is the best game, and a few miles south of Palo Alto in Santa Clara the Mission players still stick by the game that has been played on the coast for many years. But these schools are all that's left of the game that once flourished on the coast.

California states that the American game is the best. We in Honolulu believe them, but there are many angles to the situation, and to the one who has studied both games it is a hard question to answer. If Stanford could play the game as the All-Blacks play it, then a contest between the two teams would be much better than they will see at Berkeley this year. There is no faster or no better game to watch than a game between two teams of the caliber of the famous New Zealanders.

All-Blacks Were Stars.

But there is the rub. No team on the Pacific coast has even approached the playing of the men from the Antipodes. Stanford and California were as children in the games with the All-Blacks. And if the dope runs true to form Berkeley will be as children when Gilmore Dobie and his northern tribe journey to Berkeley on Nov. 6.

Jimmy Schaefer and his men will learn many things from the Scot from the north. It will take three years to develop a team at California. While California is learning the game Stanford will keep on struggling to the end. It is the last outpost in rugby in United States. They can't hang on long. Stanford alumni in Honolulu will agree to that statement. Here is the Cardinal side of the story:

Stanford will stay with Rugby as long as she finds it profitable to do so, the changes of any universities and high schools in the state notwithstanding. Why? Simply because the Cardinals like Rugby better than the old game.

Stanford Firm.

And Stanford will find it profitable to do so as long as she plays in a big game, a university that has as strong a team and as strong a supporting alumni body as has Santa Clara. This is the calm, but decided sentiment of the Stanford study body in spite of the anonymous statements of some students to the contrary.

"Why do we not go back to the old game?" repeated "Skin" Wilson, president of the Stanford student body. "Simply because the sentiment here as throughout the country north of the Tehachapi, with the possible exception of Berkeley, is absolutely for Rugby."

"We like the Rugby game better and are going to stick to it because we see our way financially clear to do so. It goes without saying that California is $50,000 in debt and I will show you that she has a schedule that is doubtful as a money-maker, Money Means Games.

"Statistics show that games in this state with outside teams are not profitable because the cost of bringing them in eats up the profits. During the years we were playing the old game, California's and our own contests with the very best teams in the United States paid the great institutions only 25 per cent of the amount each of the two universities gained from the big game.

"That was partly because there was not the interest in the old game that there is in Rugby and partly because of the fact that rivalry is the force that brings out the students, alumni and other supporters of college teams. Strong rivalry cannot exist and never has existed between schools more than 200 miles apart.

Mission Team New Rivals.

"Santa Clara will stay with Rugby as long as she can meet Stanford because meeting the Cardinals places Santa Clara in recognized intercollegiate circles for which the missionaries and their alumni have been struggling for many years. The alumni body of Santa Clara is as strong as that of any college in the state. This means a big crowd in November and that means money.

"I am not saying that the old game is not as good as Rugby because it is recognized by the nation. I do not think it is as good a game, however, for the reason that it is in a constant state of change. Rugby does not change because it has already reached a state of greater perfection."

The Lost Love.

"We do not think that California changed because she liked the old game better, but because she loved Stanford less. The inconsistency of the California position is shown by the fact that she is using a flimsy two-year agreement with A. S. C. permitting the use of freshmen in the variety in order to escape any criticism as to her intention that Stanford eliminate freshmen.

"Stanford offered to submit the question to any fair board of arbitration, but California refused all such offers, including that of Gov. Johnson."

Dr. Frank Angell, chairman of the faculty committee on athletics, states: "The Stanford faculty does and always has favored Rugby because it is a game that is for the many; it gets more men out for athletics, and because of the absence of the signal system, which necessitates the early elimination of all except the few, allows and encourages all men to stay out all season."

ALEXANDER THE GREAT WINS FROM AMERICANS

OMAHA (Neb.), October 24.—Alexander the Great made his appearance on the mound for the All-Nationals to-day and beat the All-Americans, 8 to 5. Bill James of Detroit being knocked out of the box. The score:

All-Nationals	8	H	E
All-Americans	5	H	E

Batteries—Alexander and McCarty; James, Ayres and Cady.

COLORED GIANTS WIN GAME AT OMAHA, NEB.

OMAHA, Neb., Oct. 18.—American Giants won the opener of their Oriental baseball tour from a team of Omaha all-stars, 7-5. Score:

A. Giants	7	H	E
All-Stars	5	H	E

Batteries—Wickwire and Clarkson; Clark, Hoffman and Williams.

JUSTICE McREYNOLDS TO WED MRS. LIPPINCOTT?

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Mrs. Camilla Lippincott, divorced wife of Jay B. Lippincott, son of Mrs. Craig Lippincott of this city, is to marry Justice James B. McReynolds of the supreme court of the United States, according to a despatch from Colorado Springs, where she has made her home since her separation.

Mr. Lippincott was married for the second time on Sept. 18 last, his bride being Mrs. L. B. Huntington of New York, divorced wife of Dr. Irving Huntington, a grandson of Daniel Huntington.

The report is denied by friends of Justice McReynolds, who is the only bachelor member of the supreme court, but the justice has himself refused to confirm or deny the rumor.

Secretary Daniels has been asked to place a battleship at the disposal of the Board of Naval Advisers for experimental purposes, by one of the members of the board.

Consul Arita to Enter Baseball Field This Year

Japanese Consul H. Arita will go into the baseball business this year. The consul, who has been one of the leading patrons of baseball in Hawaii, has accepted the offer made by Japanese players to lead the team that will be organized as soon as Yamashiro and C. Moriarty return to Honolulu. The team will be called Nippon, and will number many local stars who have played with other teams.

The lineup has not yet been decided on but among the players who are expected to make the team are T. Mori, Yama, Okuta and Fukushima, who will do the pitching. All three pitchers are well known, and they will be ably supported by Doi behind the bat. In the infield the Nippons will have Komeya, Yamaguchi, C. Moriarty, Iwanaga and Tsukiyama. Outfield candidates will be Yamashiro, Mura-shige and Asau. Tsunoda, who has managed other Japanese teams, will be the bench manager. Games will be arranged with teams of the Oahu and International Leagues. With the three players on the lineup who have finished their tour of the mainland, the Nippons should present a strong front this season.

JESS WILLARD SOON TO MEET ANOTHER BRUISER

[Associated Press by Federal Wireless] NEW ORLEANS, La., Nov. 2.—Jess Willard, world's champion pugilist, has agreed to fight 20 rounds here in March. The promoters of the local battle will name either Frank Moran, Jim Coffee or Fred Fulton as his opponent.

The plants of the Standard Iron Works and the Reliance Iron Works in Brooklyn were partly destroyed by fire. The damage is $10,000.
